

SAILSTAD COTTAGE MYSTERY GROWS

Girl Secretary Poses As Married to Man Resembling Eau Claire Resident.

Eau Claire, Oct. 12.—Additional evidence in the mystery surrounding the supposed death of Edward J. Sailstad, Eau Claire manufacturer, who was believed to have been burned to death in his summer cottage at Lake Nebagamon, Aug. 27, and the disappearance of Miss Dorothy Anderson, his secretary, was obtained by investigation Monday when Mrs. E. J. Kingston, Chippewa Falls, identified a picture of Sailstad as the "Mr. Kingston" who had posed as the husband of Miss Anderson.

Announces Her Marriage. Miss Anderson's connection with Sailstad began early last June when she visited the office of the Wisconsin Packing Co., at Chicago, where she was employed as a stenographer. On June 7, Miss Anderson left Chicago and went to Eau Claire and was installed as Sailstad's secretary in the Milwaukee Products Co., of which Sailstad was president.

After leaving the employ of Sailstad at Eau Claire, Miss Anderson went to Chippewa Falls, Wis., and stayed at a room in a hotel. Shortly after that she went to Chicago and on her return announced that she was married to E. J. Kingston, a travel agent in Chicago. Two weeks later, "Kingston" made numerous calls, and two days before Sailstad is supposed to have been burned to death in his cottage at Lake Nebagamon, "Kingston" and Miss Anderson drove away in the direction of Duluth. It was said in Chippewa Falls.

Investigations will attempt to solve the question of whether the bones found in the burned cottage were removed from a cemetery near Lake Nebagamon and placed in the cottage. The grave of Andrew McShee, who died 14 months ago, is said to have shown signs of having been disturbed, and two boys claimed to have seen a man answering the description of Sailstad carrying a box from the cemetery to the cottage. The grave will be opened.

Tells of Circumstances. Another chapter to the story was added on Monday when Mrs. Booth, a Chippewa Falls housewife, who picked up a letter with Dorothy Anderson, or Dorothy Kingston, as she calls herself at Chippewa Falls, the girl in the case, and who helped Dorothy pick her trunk the night before she left for the north with a man resembling E. J. Kingston, in an auto, told what was in the trunk. In addition to a lot of fine ladies' wear, there were two suits of men's clothes, one a dark gray and another a dark brown; two suits of underwear, several pairs of men's socks, all packed in the trunk, and several men's handkerchiefs.

FARMERS SUFFER LOSSES IN CYCLONE IN PORTAGE COUNTY

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Stevens Point, Oct. 12.—Reports from Portage county farmers show no serious damage to crops. The cyclone began to cause trouble in late Monday afternoon, showing the loss in the rural districts will run much higher than at first estimated. Buildings were wrecked, sites were demolished and roofs lifted from barns. Much stock was killed. More than one hundred farms were struck by the hurricane. One local insurance agency received 27 storm damage claims. Reports from Portage county, Wisconsin, were received from the storm were received in dispatches from Wausau. Wires from Knowlton, Wis., Oct. 11, said that the storm had done much to restore normal conditions in central Wisconsin. Twenty-five telephone lines out of commission. A roof with more than seven hundred panes of glass was lifted from the Railway Materials Co. building and dashed to fragments 40 feet away with a loss of $1,000.

A tall, heavy brick wall of the Soo line storage building was moved from its foundation and stands tottering and ready to crumble. Despite the intensity and range of the storm, no persons have been injured, so far as can be ascertained.

WILSON REQUESTS MINING CONFERENCE

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, Oct. 12.—President Wilson has requested a joint meeting of the operators and miners of the United States to be held at San Antonio, Tex., October 15, for the purpose of adjusting any inequalities in the recent wage award.

In Wisconsin

Madison.—David Sinclair, 18, son of the noted socialist and author, who entered the University as a freshman with the intention of working his way through college, was arrested from Greenwood, Miss., high school. Asked why he chose Wisconsin, he answered, "I did choose this university because he believes it is one of the most liberal in the east and west and I thought this would be a good place to live. The school is more conservative than the middle west."

Wisconsin Rapids.—Two moonshine stills, one in full operation, together with a quantity of property and equipment, were confiscated by county prohibition officers, Steve Slick and Joseph Wopple, near the city of Wisconsin Rapids. The stills were taken by surprise and said to have come to the city three months ago, after purchasing the small farm near the city. The stills were found on a circuit court.

Mantowoc.—It is reported that the Milwaukee, Chicago and Manitowish Transportation company may extend its coastwise service to Manitowoc in the near future, running two boats a week from the city. The company has been in operation for two years, at which time the Goodrich Transportation company abandoned its service on the west shore.

FARMERS DECLARE MARKET IS UNFAIR

Fruit and Vegetable Growers in Chicago District Have Investigation.

Chicago.—Chicago's market for fruit and vegetables from middle west truck farmers is a "vicious" one, declared the Illinois Agricultural Association in a statement made public here.

The association, which is composed of nearly 100,000 Illinois farmers organized in farm bureaus, has recently determined to establish a fruit and vegetable marketing department, and as a step toward this end recently sent an expert into the South Water street market, the largest of its kind in the world, and the Randolph market. At the same time he reviewed prices in grocery stores.

Little Relation to Price. What the produce grower receives on these markets bears extremely little relation to what the consumer pays for the same vegetables, the association declares. Officials said they had names and figures to back up their statements. The investigator reported produce was being taken back to be dumped because its growers could not afford to sell at the prices offered because there was no sale at all.

There is room for the farmers themselves to improve their methods, the association investigator reported. He said he found need for more honest methods and for better standardization. At association headquarters here it was said that the first efforts of the association in developing marketing methods would be made "at home" with the farmers, for betterment in these respects. The association's statement summarizing the report received says:

Producers Don't Know Demand. "Producers have no way of telling the supply or demand of the market and cannot supply the market intelligently. Some days there is a flood of certain kinds of produce and very often there is a shortage of that same product the next day."

"Prices differ 100 per cent to growers on the same products and the same quality, even the same hour of the day."

There is little standardization of packages and considerable dishonesty in packing.

The quantity received by growers in the quantity on the market has little or nothing to do with retail prices in Chicago.

Auto Trucks Arrive Early. "Some 600 auto trucks from a radius of 50 miles of Chicago come to the Randolph and South Water street markets each day. These trucks are sold to commission men, wholesale houses, speculators, peddlers, hucksters and consumers."

Order to get a stand for next day's market, truck growers begin to arrive at 4 p. m. The drivers sleep on top or in under their wagons, according to the weather conditions, waiting for the market to open up next morning.

"The price a grower gets depends largely upon how good a guesser he is on the supply of produce on the market that day which he has brought in and his shrewdness in dealing with the buyers in the market. A grower who brings in a large quantity of produce in the box and bags of corn for more than twice as much as others on the same morning. A market may fluctuate from 50 to 100 per cent in garden products within a few hours' time."

Part of Load Dumped. Day after day many trucks go home with part of their load to be dumped, and other days there is a shortage."

The investigator's report includes a long list of truck growers who hauled some of their load home during the week of Sept. 13. "One grower took home half a load of crates of cabbages, each containing 25 heads, because he was offered only 75 cents a crate. He said his reason for not selling was that crates cost 25 cents each and that he could not afford to sell for that price. A grower in Park gardeners took home sweet corn because he could not get over 20 cents for a bag of four dozen. A number of cases showed quantities of corn and other products brought home because there was no sale at all."

Prices Vary Daily. "On these same days a round of the Chicago retail markets was made to compare growers' and consumers' prices. On Monday the producer received 15 cents a dozen for sweet corn, on Wednesday 8 cents, and on Friday 9 1/2 cents. The same three days the average retail price at a large number of stores in the Loop (downtown district) and in suburban areas was 15 cents a dozen on Monday and 10 cents a dozen on Wednesday and Friday. On these same days tomatoes sold for an average of 2 1/2 cents a pound by growers and 5 cents a pound by retail stores. Cabbage sold for 1 1/2 to 1 1/2 cent a pound on these three days by the producers and the average retail price the three days was 4 to 5 cents a pound."

Gardeners hauled all these products on these same days for no reason at all. They could not get a price to pay for the containers and work of preparing for the market.

From these reports the Illinois Agricultural association draws a conclusion that supply or price growers receive has little or no relation to the price consumers pay. Gardeners were business visitors in New Glarus, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hinner, Magnolia, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Joe Bodenberger. In the afternoon they all motored to Madison.

F. W. Rodd received word that his uncle, David Rodd, San Francisco, Calif., was killed there last week in an automobile accident.

This is Columbus Day. In 1492, Christopher Columbus with a fleet of ships that could navigate Rock River at low water, took the long voyage into unknown and uncharted territory and landed on October 12 on the little island, in the West Indies, later to be named San Salvador. In that time liberty was unknown; the lamp of reason had not been lighted but here and there, and burned dimly. The world was one of war and conquest and slavery; mentally and physically; a world of kings and princes and nobles and bigotry and superstition. It has changed somewhat since—changed by the establishment of free America. And it is well that the principles which made America possible be not forgotten on this Columbus Day.

WHAT THE PRESIDENT SAID TO THE RUMANIAN DELEGATE.
In the Congressional Record of February 3, 1920, appears a quotation from a speech by President Wilson to the Rumanian and Serbian delegates at the peace conference at Paris, in answer to an inquiry of those delegates as to the result to them of becoming members of the League. The reply of the president is given as follows:

"If the world should be troubled again, if the conditions which we all regard as fundamental are challenged, the guarantees which will be given to you (Serbia and Rumania) will pledge that the United States will send its army and fleet across the ocean, it should desire to reach a solution of the various problems."

A few days ago at St. Louis, Senator Spencer used this statement in a speech. It was at once denied by Secretary Tamm, who also added the Coxonian language that the senator lied. Sen. Spencer then asked the president if he authorized the denial. He said he did, and repeated the statement that the senator lied. The senator then asked the president to produce the proofs in the stenographic notes of the peace conference when the president peevishly retorted that he would leave it to the voters of Missouri to decide whether Spencer or he was lying.

Monday, in spite of the denial that a copy of the minutes of the conference and conversation between the delegates and the president was in existence this side of Paris, the president gave out the minutes of the conference kept by Fred A. Carlson, a stenographer to the president, now a court reporter at Chicago. The president was attempting to impress on the Rumanian and other minority representatives that the peace of the world was to be guaranteed by the great powers. In order to obtain the assent of action within their own borders, the pledge was made and they were reminded that they expected the fleet and army of the United States to see that the observations were kept. That is the crux of the whole matter. Underlying all these transactions, said the president, were the expectation on the part, for example, of Rumania and Czechoslovakia, that if any covenant of this settlement are not observed the United States will send her armies and her navies to see that they are observed.

Force must be used to keep peace, and that was to come from the United States in part. The French translation of the minutes is now available and has been called here. It differs but little. Instead of "will pledge" we have "will mean." The French original is "La garantie que vous est donnée vous dire les Etats-Unis feront passer de ce côté, de l'océan leur armée, à leur flotte." Since, the statement by the president, May 31, 1919, has been used by advocates of the League as evidence that the smaller nations would be fully protected. Lee Meriwether, acting as personal representative of the president at the peace conference, says it is a very close translation. Herbert Gibbons Adams in an article in the Century Magazine for May, 1920, uses the same language. Dr. E. J. Dillon in his work, "The Inside Story of the Peace Conference," quotes the president as saying:

"We guarantee your frontiers and your territories. That means that we will send over arms, ships and men in case of necessity. Therefore, we possess the right and recognize the duty to hinder the survival of a set of deplorable conditions which would render this intervention unavoidable."

This is a slight alteration of the text, as reported by Carlson. But it is not so important whether the president did or did not say the exact words quoted by Sen. Spencer. Until the present critical situation in the League's fortunes in America, and the people became thoroughly educated as to the possibilities of war in guaranteeing the territorial boundaries of Europe, he has not denied it. If Serbia or Rumania in their boundaries are challenged by a warring nation we will under the League be called on to preserve the integrity of the territory, and it congress should not declare war it would be violation of a moral obligation greater than a legal one assumed under article ten.

William J. Morgan, who speaks here tonight, has no reputation as a politician, but a considerable one as an honest man who has the courage of his convictions.

Gov. Cox says Mr. Taft wrote some of the League of Nations covenant. That probably accounts for some of the few saving graces in the document.

Russia wants peace with or without Wrangel.

Presidential Campaigns

By FREDERICK J. RASKIN

XIX, THE MCKINLEY-BRYAN RACE OF 1896.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—The hardest fought political battle of American history was the campaign of 1896 in which William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska, the fact that McKinley was re-elected with ease in his second campaign against Bryan, and that the Republican majorities of 1896 look so great on paper, has caused many men of short memory to believe that McKinley won his first election without great difficulty.

The year 1896 was a year of political revolution. Both of the leading parties underwent great changes, and the two thousand fold. Mr. Cleveland's second administration began with the country on the verge of a financial crisis. The blow descended and the Panic of 1893 was on. The money question, which both parties had so carefully side-stepped for so many years, was presented in such a way that the administration could not avoid taking a position. Mr. Cleveland and his cabinet decided to place the country squarely on the gold standard, and to disregard the petty squabbles which had been thrown to silver. Treasury regulations accomplished this purpose long before the McKinley administration came in.

For the first time since the first part of Buchanan's administration the Government was in the control of the Democrats, that party having the president and a majority in both houses of Congress. Mr. Cleveland called Congress together and urged the repeal of the silver purchasing clause of the Sherman Act, which would have placed the silver dollar on a par with the gold dollar.

The Democratic landslide which re-elected Cleveland was the result of popular disapproval of the McKinley Tariff Bill of 1890. The Democratic Congress passed the Wilson Bill, which Mr. Cleveland permitted to become a law without his signature.

As the people had condemned the McKinley Bill six months after it was passed and before its effect could possibly have been felt, by the Wilson of the Democratic House in 1890, so the Wilson Bill, charged with responsibility for the panic which was on, before the bill was written, resulted in the overwhelming Republican congressional victory of 1894.

All through the three years of the Cleveland Administration leading up to the campaign of 1896 there was constant strife in both parties. For a time it seemed that the Republicans would declare for free silver and that the Democrats would follow them. When it seemed that both parties would declare for the gold standard and the silver would enroll under the banner of Populism. The Republicans felt certain that they could win on the prosperity issue, and by denouncing the Cleveland administration for its failure to secure peace.

When the gold plank was adopted, thirty-four western Republican delegates, headed by Senator Teller of Colorado, Senator Cannon of Utah, and Senator Dubois of Idaho, walked out of the convention and into the Democratic party. All over the country there were republicans who bolted the convention. The fact that they had bolted the convention was called. Mr. Hanna, chosen chairman of the national committee, knew that he had a great job ahead of him and he set to work.

The Democratic Convention met in Chicago. The Cleveland wing of the party controlled the national committee, but the recommendations of that body were swept aside on the first vote and it was clear that the silver men controlled the convention. A resolution commending the then present Democratic administration was voted down with venal votes. No man was ever elected more than the Democratic National Convention of 1896 hated Grover Cleveland, the Democratic President of the United States.

Leading free silver advocates like Richard P. Bland of Missouri and John R. McLean of Ohio were contesting for the nomination. The story of their defeat is a most familiar bit of political history. William Jennings Bryan, who had reported to the St. Louis convention which nominated McKinley, for a Nebraska newspaper, came to Chicago at the head of a contesting delegation. He was given a seat. Then came the great debate on the platform, the eastern Democrats fighting hard against the majority. In that debate, Mr. Bryan, then only thirty-six years of age, and in the full of his manhood, leaped into world-wide fame in a full of earnest, leaping words of power and cross of gold speech, whether the figure was borrowed from Representative McCall of Massachusetts or not, sent that convention wild. Bryan was nominated.

A little later the Populists and the Silver Republicans also nominated "The Boy Orator of the Platte." The Cleveland Democrats called a convention at Indianapolis and organized the "National Democracy." General John M. Palmer of Illinois, a soldier of the Civil War, was nominated for President, with a General Simon Bolivar Buckner of President, with a soldier of the Confederacy, for Vice President. They polled, but few votes, the majority of the gold Democrats voting straight for McKinley.

Bryan soon began his unprecedented and unequalled campaign. He did not then possess the suavity of his later years, but he was mightily in his element. No other man has ever aroused the enthusiasm which he created in that campaign. He spoke to over five million people, making over a thousand separate speeches. In the first part of the campaign he traveled in ordinary day coaches, the money was so tight that it was hard for him to be possible. Toward the end of the campaign the money was plentiful and he was enabled to get a private car. He was without money and in his great canvasses was sometimes forced to borrow the price of a ticket to the next stopping place.

Against this terrific campaign, which seemed to be sweeping the country for the Democrats, Mr. Hanna planned the great "campaign of education." Careful canvasses taken two months before the elections showed that such states as Ohio and Indiana were for Bryan.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE WALL OF THE AFTER-DINNER SPEAKER.

Think not that I too bitterly complain—
I would not walk the easy path through life.
I'm glad to bear my portion of its strife.
To know the rugged highways and the rain,
The disappointments and the clouds of doubt,
Which come at times to test and try me out.
But, friend of mine, of you I now beseech,
Don't call on me to make a little speech.

Let me sit here and eat my evening meal
Without that inward throbbing of fear and dread.
Let me be gay while I am breaking bread
And know the charm of fellowship is real;
I would enjoy the music and the wine,
And not be forced to look to you for sign,
Yet him who likes the job get up to preach,
Don't call on me to make a little speech.

The hermit to his mountain cave retires
And spends his evenings bitterly alone.
Friends never come to make their friends
Ship known.
Or share the blazes of the wood he fires,
He sits and mends in silence and in grim,
And yet sometimes I think I envy him!
When night comes on he's safely out of 'em.

He's never urged to make a little speech.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON.

Physical culture lecturer says a woman should be able to touch the floor with her hands without bursting a seam in her clothes. But that would rob the stunt of the invaluable element of surprise.

FOOD AS STIMULANT.
We are informed by a place of liquor as a food stimulant. This is not an entirely new idea. If memory does not fail us entirely, Mr. Thomas A. Edison made the same point when he was a young man. He was entirely abstemious for a man to become intoxicated on food.

Mr. Edison claimed there were food tapers who who invented the electric light. He said that he had been eating a sandwich in the restaurant in the city of New York when he was working on the electric light. He said that he had been eating a sandwich in the restaurant in the city of New York when he was working on the electric light.

And so we may expect in a year or two to see items in the papers along the lines of the O. K. lunch-room yesterday, and in a voice that shook with emotion, said, "Give me some more sandwiches. I have just witnessed a terrible accident and am all unstrung."

A man rushed into the Jussie Bee restaurant yesterday, grabbed a dill pickle and lay down and disappeared. He said a lady had fainted in the street and the dill pickle would save her life.

The little lunch-room was the scene of a brawl last night which resulted in the arrest of seven men who had been in the place all day eating pimento sandwiches. Toward midnight, several mirrors were smashed and the furniture was reduced to kindling wood.

Who's Who Today

ALVAN TUTT FILLER.
Alvan Fuller, for several years a member of the house in Massachusetts, has been nominated lieutenant governor of that state by the republicans.

And if he is elected to the office and conducts it in as unselfish a fashion as he has in his career, he will add another interesting chapter to his life.
Mr. Fuller has been a member of the Massachusetts house of representatives in 1915. The next year he was elected to the Massachusetts national convention and the next two years, 1917-19, he sat in congress.
Fuller lives now in Malden, Mass., and is owner of a large motor car company in Boston.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

Mr. Blaine should be defeated. He should not be permitted to become the governor of this state. He is not a republican. He is a republican. He is back of the national ticket and is giving, and will continue to give, his unequalled support to the republican platform. He is the next president of the United States. The next senate will be republican. It is not assumed that the republicans will have it in good working majority. Racine Journal-News (Rep.).

Mr. Morgan is performing genuine service for the state of Wisconsin in holding to the issue of radicalism and non-partisan league dominion. That is the question involved in this election. The question is, is it a question of the state government or is it a question of the national government? We believe all thoroughgoing republicans will applaud the nominees for attorney general for the course he has taken. The candidacy of Col. McCoy. The issues involved in the gubernatorial election are of great and far-reaching importance to Wisconsin. Application Post-Crescent (Rep.).

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO
October 12, 1880.—Another Republican rally had been arranged for and will be given in the Opera house next Monday night. Hon. E. W. Keyes and Hon. J. C. Sloan will talk on the political issues of the day. The last speaker for the evening will be Hon. J. C. Sloan.

THIRTY-ONE YEARS AGO
October 12, 1889.—Edward Spaulding of the town of Hudson, Miss. Francis Whiting, of this city, were married in the Christ church this afternoon at one-thirty. The new four-mile bridge was formally accepted by the state of Wisconsin. The new four-mile bridge was formally accepted by the state of Wisconsin.

TWENTY YEARS AGO
October 12, 1900.—An organization of telegraph and railroad employees was perfected last evening in Columbia Hill, only a small number answering the response. A. N. HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Only inquiries of general interest are answered. All letters will be answered if they are in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Address Dr. Wm. Brady, Gazette.

SOME MORE OF THE GLOOM

Are chiefly a result of character. When we prescribe two miles of going in that direction, it is the first of that tired feeling. It is indeed an effort, many a morning and many a night, to get down to efficiency exercises. You just hate to go against the grain, and as our correspondent says, it seems like adding more fatigue. But if you have learned the great value of self-discipline you will drive yourself to your exercise, and very shortly you will have experienced an extraordinary amount of fatigue—for you have started the oxidation of your fatigue poisons.

The Dr. B. M. makes the mistake of going to a show, or a ballgame, or some such doubtful recreation. He should put on a show of his own, or start a game of three-card monte, or some such thing. He should not rest. Muscular exercise is the kind of rest his system requires. "QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS." Is it injurious to one's health to eat canned tomatoes? Q. How many acres are under contract with factories for the raising of corn, peas, tomatoes and snap beans?
A. W. A. C.
Q. The total acreage contracted for in 1920 for these four crops, and reported, was 490,482 acres.

Q. How can a thermos bottle be cleaned?
A. C. H. H.
The sediment on the inside of a thermos bottle may be removed by rinsing thoroughly with a small quantity of hydrochloric acid, followed by clean water or ammonia water.

Q. Is golden rod especially apt to cause hay fever?
A. T. H. T.
The American School Hygiene association says that hay fever is now known to be caused by the pollen of weeds, principally that of rag weed, daisy weed, mugwort, sage brush, and some grasses. Goldenrod is only infrequently a cause of hay fever.

Q. Would like to know the date of the first A. E. F. troops landed in Europe, and at what point. A. E. M.
The War department says that the first military unit to leave the United States for France was base hospital unit No. 4, from Port Totten, N. Y., which sailed on May 5, 1917, on the steamship Orduna, and arrived at the port of St. Nazaire on May 17.

Q. Is there a point during a cycle when the piston is not in motion?
M. L.
The Bureau of Standards says that at end of each stroke the piston is stationary for a very short time.

Q. What is the origin of the Apostle's Creed?
A. B. C.
The origin of the Apostle's Creed is not fully determined. It is supposed to have been taken from the apostles of Peter (Mark 16-16) and from the baptismal invocation which determined the trinitarian order and arrangement. The earliest mention of the Apostle's Creed is found in a passage in the works of St. Irenaeus against heresies. He died in 202 A. D. when about 50 years old.

Q. How many anarchists were deported last year?
A. C. C.
The Bureau of Immigration says that of 2,712 aliens deported during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1920, 314 were of the anarchistic or kindred classes.

Q. Who said "Better to wear out than to rust out"?
A. A.
This is attributed to Bishop Cumberland, who lived from 1622 until 1718. When asked by him, "What would wear himself out by his incessant application he replied, "Better to wear out than to rust out."

Q. Are thunderstorms more likely to occur at certain hours?
W. A. C.
On land, thunderstorms occur most frequently at specified hours of the day and night, particularly in the afternoon and evening. In the ocean where thunderstorms occur at all hours of the day and night with equal frequency.

Q. In cutting cards in auction bridge there any difference in the value of suitings?
A. B. C.
In the old game, the ace is the lowest card; between cards of otherwise equal value, the lowest is the spade, next the heart, next the diamond, and the club.

Q. What does the term "histe the turkey" mean?
W. A. M.
This is an expression used in lumberjacks' outfit. To "histe the turkey" is to take one's personal belongings and leave camp.

Q. Has the postal money order ever been exchanged?
C. E. M.
A. The Postoffice department says that a new conversion table for use in transaction of international postal money order business went postal effect Aug. 16. This applies only to money orders issued in the United States for payment in foreign countries. Money orders issued in foreign countries for payment in the United States are payable at their full face value in United States currency as certified on corresponding advices, as heretofore.

The Letters of Tessie and Joe

DEAR TESSIE: Well what do you think about your friends the C. Chaplins? It must be a great feeling to be such a public character—that everybody from Maine to China takes a personal interest when you decide to try your luck at a divorce. I bet even in Russia right now the hungry Bolsheviks are passing the time while they stand in the bread line with some such remarks as, "Well well wellsky! What do you knowsky about Charlie Chaplinsky! Oh boyssky!"

In one way, Tessie, it's the funniest stunt Charlie's pulled off so far, because the great joke of it is, he's handing his admiring public the best laugh they've had for a long time and instead of it bringing him in a successful suit, why he has to pay an expensive battery of lawyers and all that sort of thing. I bet every time he stops to think of it he gets so mad he hits himself in the face with a pie! Or else if he don't it's only because he's about 15 cents ahead now and Charlie only expects to get a million dollars advance royalties on his new picture and you know a million don't go as far as it used to.

The whole thing does to prove, Tessie, that nothing is sure in this life. Nothing but rent day and the unhospitable attitude that the mention of Daisy Canned Soups brings out in a grocer. Here's a poor deluded girl that married the funniest guy in the world expecting that she's fell hair to a fine pass entailing her to laugh herself into a happy old age, and she wakes up with a bang to find out that he's about as funny around the house as a crutch full of splinters. While on the other hand if she'd married an undertaker her life would probably of been one giggle after another. It must be that a comedian has got to relax after business hours the same as anybody else, and as the saying is, it's the woman that pays.

If that poor little girl is thrown to the hungry movie men with only her face and her notoriety between her and the poor house, the most she can hope to pull down is between two and three thousand a week, but still out of that she'll be able to afford a quarter occasionally to go to a movie theatre for the delicious sensation of having her ex-husband amuse her on the screen without no obligation on her part to be there when he comes home to relax.

Well, love and so-long.

JOE.

Mustn't miss Tessie's reaction to the shummy in her letter tomorrow.

FOR APPLE TIME
Canned Apples—Core the apples and remove a strip from the top and bottom. Steam until tender and take care not to break the apples. Fill into either one-half gallon or one-quart jars. Pack closely and cover with a strip made as follows: Place the liquid from the steaming apples in a preserving kettle and add sufficient water, if necessary, to make the desired amount.

Use two cups of water, two cups of sugar and one-half teaspoon of nutmeg. Bring to a boil and use to cover the apples. These apples may be used for making apple dumplings or brown betty.

Baked Apples—Core and remove a strip from the apples and place in a baking pan. Cover the pan and bake in the oven until tender. The double roasting pan is splendid for this, or else a deep muffin pan. Pour over each apple two tablespoons of water, to make the syrup use three pounds of sugar, two cups of water.

Bring to boil and cook five minutes. When the apples are baked, lift into sterilized jars and pack closely. Fill to overflowing with the prepared syrup and then finish as for canned apples.

For variety the center of the apples may be stuffed with seeded raisins and candied ginger, maraschino cherries, a few cloves and a piece of lemon peel which has been cooked until tender.

Apple Tutti Frutti (Oriental)—Wash and pare fifteen medium-sized apples and then cut in thick slices. Place in a preserving kettle and add two and one-half cups of water, three pounds of sugar, one package of seedless raisins, one pound of finely chopped peanuts or other nuts, four ounces of finely chopped citron, four ounces of finely chopped candied orange peel, four ounces of finely chopped candied lemon peel, one cup of finely chopped preserved ginger, one and one-half cups of finely chopped marshmallows and cherries.

Stir and dissolve the sugar and then bring to a boil and cook until very thick like jam. Place an apple in a bowl and fill with the mixture. Seal and then store in a cool dry place.

Apple Jelly—Use parings for the jelly. Place them in a preserving kettle and cover with cold water. Bring to a boil and cook until pulp is soft and then turn into jelly bag and drain. Return the juice to the kettle and boil rapidly for seven minutes. Measure and then add six cups of sugar for each cup of juice. Stir and dissolve the sugar and then bring to a boil and cook for fifteen minutes. Pour into sterilized jars, seal securely and then store in a cool place.

Stuffed Apples—Bake tart buttered apples until tender but not broken. Scoop out centers and mix with new pickle relish and mayonnaise. Chill and serve with roast duck or pork roast.

INDEPENDENCE

"Labor has come into its own since the world was ended. You can't abuse or mistreat labor any more."

The speaker was Governor Kirby of Alabama. He continued a job at a coal mine. His job was to run cars down a steep hill. There was only a sleeper at the bottom to stop the cars; so he was cautioned again and again to run them very carefully, keeping the brakes well on.

"Things went all right for two or three days, and then the new hand took over. He let four cars run down the hill full speed. They jumped over the sleeper and fell into a creek 30 feet below."

"The boss saw the tragedy from his office window, and he came tearing out in a fearful rage."

"But the new hand forestalled him. 'Don't ye come round here cursing and awarrior at me,' he said. 'Ah done quit!'"

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH H. THOMPSON
Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl sixteen years old and I live with a boy nineteen, living in another town. He has asked me to marry him.

There is another boy in this town whom I have gone with two or three times, but I can't enjoy myself with him as I am all the time thinking about the other one.

My father is dead and I have a step-father. He is mean to me and he wants me to consent to my marrying the boy I love. My sister ran away and married when she was sixteen and now she is a mother of two dear little children and is not the same way with me, but I love this boy dearly and it would break my heart to give him up. Do you think I would be doing right to run away and marry?

I have to work hard and then mother won't let me go out anywhere unless she goes with me.

Please give me your best advice. I am very young to have freedom to go with boys as much as you please, and also too young to be thinking of marriage. You sisters' unhappiness is not strange. At least ninety-nine out of every hundred girls who marry at sixteen are unhappy. Follow your mother's advice and wait. If you and the young man really love each other your love can stand the test of time and when you are both old enough you will marry.

You must be blind to conditions to even consider marriage with a nineteen-year-old boy. Everything is so very expensive that he could not earn enough to provide for you, let alone the children which would probably come in the course of a few years.

Try to see your mother's point of view, and appreciate her advice to you. She is your best friend and you will have the chance to realize in later years.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am just a school teacher. It is said that school teachers are the one class of women to whom marriage never comes. I know for a fact that this is a false statement. I myself have had more than one proposal and I know various other teachers who have had the same experience.

Right now there is a very handsome man who wants to marry me. He thinks himself a superman, while I do not find him even interesting. My parents think he is wonderful and they urge me to learn to care for him. Such a thing is absolutely impossible. My parents think I have reached the age where it is questionable if I ever marry and so they want me to take for my life mate a man I do not like in the least.

It seems to me that I would be happier working than supported by a man I could not respect. My parents do not feel this way at all, however, and so I would like your opinion.

ONLY A TEACHER. I think you are decidedly right. You would sell your soul for a husband if you were to marry a man you could not respect or care for in the least. Women are setting a much higher standard for marriage than they used to. If they cannot have love they refuse marriage. Keep on with your teaching until the right place by good work even if you should never marry. There is no age limit, however, in marriage and nowadays women are so busy in their duties that many do not marry until they have passed thirty.

Sunflowers Are Used

For Silage in Canada

Calgary, Alta.—Millions of sunflowers sell before the knives of the mowers this fall in the most gorgeous crop ever harvested in western Canada. Immense areas were planted to this new silage product. Fields of 20 and 50 acres were common, and 50 acres of sunflowers, close packed, standing 32 and 35 feet high, with half a dozen great, yellow blossoms budding on every stalk, were spectacular beauty spots in the prairie landscape. Cutting these towering miniature forests might seem a difficult task, but the rapidly shutting saw-toothed knives of mowing machines brought them tumbling to earth in golden windrows. The use of sunflowers for silage is of recent origin. This is the first year they have been generally grown.

Austria Urges Working

Men to Go to Argentina

Buenos Aires—Immigration of Austrian workmen to Argentina is being promoted by Dr. M. Fuchs, former consul general of Austria-Hungary here, who has been sent back to this country by the minister of the interior of the Austrian republic to establish credits to be used in aiding workmen to emigrate and in building up Austrian industries. Dr. Fuchs said that the decline in the exchange value of Austrian money makes it almost impossible for workmen to pay their own passages in order to emigrate. At the same time, he says, the condition of the republic is such that it is imperative to reduce the population of the country.

Bergdoll's Automobile Is Found in Minnesota
Pembina, N. D.—An automobile abandoned in St. Vincent, Minn. early this spring is the car used by Grover Bergdoll, Philadelphia draft evader, in escaping into Canada, according to federal officials working on the case here. Bergdoll, according to belief here, went to Winnipeg from St. Vincent and there obtained a passport from a returned soldier which enabled him to cross to Holland. Four pistols and two bottles of whiskey were found in the car, which has been shipped to Philadelphia.

Shelby knew now something of what he must contend with. The act of abduction, and the attempted murder, was no sudden temptation assailing Macklin, but undoubtedly part of a well organized plan. Whatever the object, the man concerned evidently had intended taking her life. She would never have been spared and carried away, apparently unharmed. If the purpose was to keep her alive, she kept alive, but helpless in their hands.

He was cool now; grimly determined, but intent on preparing himself for a long and dangerous quest. He was to be one man pitted against

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made.

There's an easy way to save 50¢ and yet have the best cough remedy. You are tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plain, old-fashioned syrup at home. But have you ever used it? Thousands of families, the world over, tell that they could hardly live without it. It's simple, and it's good, but the way it takes hold of a cough will soon earn it a permanent place in your home.

It is a simple, old-fashioned syrup of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. If desired, use a little of the honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough relief than any other cough remedy made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made syrup conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse, tight cough, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and all ailments of the throat and chest. It is a compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments. Don't you avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "The Best Cough Syrup" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. WISCONSIN CROPS SHOW UP WELL

Shortage in Wheat and Potatoes But Big Yield of Other Products.

Madison, Oct. 12.—Over 5,000,000 bushels of corn, 1,700,000 bushels of potatoes and nearly 5,000,000 pounds of tobacco were added to the Wisconsin crop prospect during the month of September, states Joseph A. Becker, of the Wisconsin Cooperative Crop Reporting Service.

The Bureau of Crop Estimates and Wisconsin State Department of Agriculture. Beneficial rainfall during the first ten days of the month, followed by warm weather, caused a schist in growth and improved ripening of all growing crops.

CORN.—The Wisconsin corn crop is now forecasted at 5,555,000 bushels, compared with 5,254,000 in 1919 and a five-year average of 5,444,000 bushels. Nearly all corn is now safe from October 1 to September 1, 1919, compared with 82 per cent of normal, compared with 82 per cent on September 1, 1919 and a five-year average of 82 per cent.

POTATOES.—The Wisconsin potato crop is now forecasted at 1,700,000 bushels, compared with 1,500,000 in 1919 and a five-year average of 1,600,000 bushels. Potatoes in the central counties of the state continued green until the first of October. The crop is estimated at 75 per cent, compared with 74 on September 1, 1919 and a five-year average of 74 per cent.

Tobacco.—Tobacco production in Wisconsin is estimated at 5,000,000 pounds, compared with the forecast from September 1 to September 1, 1919, of 4,650,000 pounds. The crop is estimated at 75 per cent, compared with 74 on September 1, 1919 and a five-year average of 74 per cent.

CABBAGE.—The preliminary estimate of per acre yield of cabbage is 10.2 tons per acre compared with 7.3 last year and an eight-year average of 8.1 tons. Production is estimated at 150,000 tons, compared with 130,000 last year and an eight-year average of 140,000 tons.

Sugar Beet Crop.

SUGAR BEETS.—Condition of sugar beets on September 1 was 84 per cent, compared with 76 on September 1, 1919 and a five-year average of 85. Forecasted production is 175,000 tons, compared with 185,000 on September 1 and 117,000 tons produced in 1919.

United States.—Production forecast for the United States for 1920 is 5,370,000 tons, compared with 5,220,000 in 1919.

NATIONAL GUARD TWICE 1916 SIZE

Holway Hopes to Have 10,500 Enlisted by First of Year.

Madison.—The Wisconsin national guard numbers just twice that of 1916, just before the border trouble, according to Lieut. Col. Byron B. Holway, of the state headquarters, before Jan. 1. Adj. Gen. Orlando Holway expects to have 10,500 men, three times the number of 1916.

Since 1916 new units have been formed at Phillips, Gillette, Spooner, Wausau, Kenosha, Lake Geneva, Watertown, Stanley, Ladysmith, Two Rivers, Janesville, Platteville, River Falls, Abbot, New London, Jefferson, Clintonville, and Cranford. At Janesville a tank company has been organized.

Up to date there are 25 companies of infantry, 17 troops of cavalry, two batteries of artillery, three regiments of machine gun companies, two battalions of tank companies, two sanitary detachments, three companies in the supply and three in the ammunition train, and three regimental support companies.

Wisconsin always has ranked high in military circles. National guardsmen from the Badger state were the first to go overseas. The Rainbow division was made up partly of Wisconsin men, while the thirty-second was composed entirely of men from Michigan and Wisconsin. Texas and Minnesota are the only other two states that surpass Wisconsin in filling the national guard quotas.

NEW SYSTEM SPEEDS GAZETTE DELIVERIES
To insure a higher percentage of efficiency and to speed up delivery of the Gazette to customers living in the outlying wards of the city, a new system is now being used. The papers are counted and tied in bundles and delivered to the carriers at their stations indicated by the Gazette boxes. In case of rain, papers are kept dry by the covering afforded by the boxes. Heretofore carriers have called for the papers at the Gazette. Under this new system more prompt delivery is assured and was experienced under the old system.

SOCIALIST LEADER WILL SPEAK HERE
William Coleman, socialist candidate for governor, will speak at the Corn Exchange here at 8 o'clock Wednesday night in the interests of the state ticket for his party. His attacks on the constitution, league, prohibition, league of nations and profiteering have caused comment all over the state.

Pure Oxygen Is Cure for Soldiers Gassed in War
London.—An attempt is being made to cure men who have been gassed in the war, by pure oxygen breathing. At Guy's hospital an air-tight chamber of glass 20 feet square and 7 1/2 feet high has been made. Men who have been gassed and suffer difficulty of breathing will be put in the chamber for five days or more and will breathe oxygen continually. The treatment was devised by Prof. Joseph Barcroft of Cambridge university and Dr. G. H. Hunt of Guy's hospital.

KING ALEXANDER'S CONDITION IS WORSE
Athens.—King Alexander's condition took a turn for the worse.

Japs Hustle Cablegrams During Economic Crisis
Tokio.—The economic crisis in Japan has had the result of immensely quickening the time for transmission of cablegrams between Japan and the United States. A falling off in business means a less crowded cable and messages that took ten days and over during the war now go through in less than 24 hours. The ministry of communications has cancelled the war decree, giving the same person the right to send an unlimited number of urgent messages. Such cablegrams are always restricted to ten words and cost three times the ordinary commercial messages.

ELECTRIC COMPANY TO READJUST STATE RATES
Madison.—The Wisconsin railroad commission issued an order authorizing the Wisconsin Light and Power company to adjust its electric rates in Wisconsin. Eau Claire, Chippewa Falls and La Crosse will start at 11 cents per kilowatt, Menomonie at 10 cents, and smaller localities 15 cents.

PULLMAN COMPANY IS ASSESSED $1,000,000
Madison.—The state tax commission has announced the assessment of the Pullman company at $1,000,000. This is an increase in the assessment of $500,000 over one year ago.

Body of Woman Found in River Near Beloit Dam
A week's search for Miss Mary Quinn, 53, Beloit, ended Sunday when her body was taken from Rock river near the dam in the line city. The body was discovered by a fisherman.

Miss Quinn Disappeared Mysteriously a Week Ago Yesterday
Miss Quinn disappeared mysteriously a week ago yesterday. When she was last seen, she was in the city, and from there they were to go to Oshkosh to attend a conference of Social Workers. A rally day program was given at the Methodist church Sunday. Helen and Donald Hickey and Stella Wagner were among the week-end visitors at home.

Waterbury, Jr., Arrived Saturday from Overseas
The funeral was held Monday morning from the Catholic church. The young man was a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Waterbury, Jr. He died of pneumonia in a hospital soon after arriving overseas. There were six sons in this family, four of whom are living. Edwin Waterbury, Madison, and Harry, Chicago, were here to attend the funeral of their brother. Henry Casper, Madison, an uncle, was also here.
